

1. The present invention relates to a process for the production of a polymer.

